BioProtex

digital printing flexible expertise

BioProtex is an antimicrobial protection based on silver ion technology.

This treatment, in the form of an additive, is incorporated into Mosaic expert fabrics at the time of manufacture, and provides inherent antimicrobial protection for the expected lifetime of the product.

Levels of bacteria are significantly reduced within hours of the fabrics being in-situ. Formation and growth of yeast and moulds are also restricted.

BioProtex remains effective after each NHS wash cycle and is certified to JISL 9002.

BioProtex Silver Anti-microbial technology is exclusive to Mosaic expert fabrics.

'Imagine the possibilities..' an overworked phrase when applied to digital printing. Of course you can imagine the possibilities... or many of them we're sure. Let's not imagine, let's consider.

Healthcare and corporate messages may be communicated through your soft furnishings. Single panel cubicle curtains with no pattern repeat.

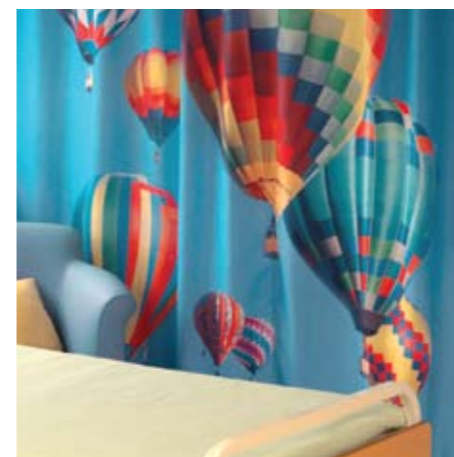

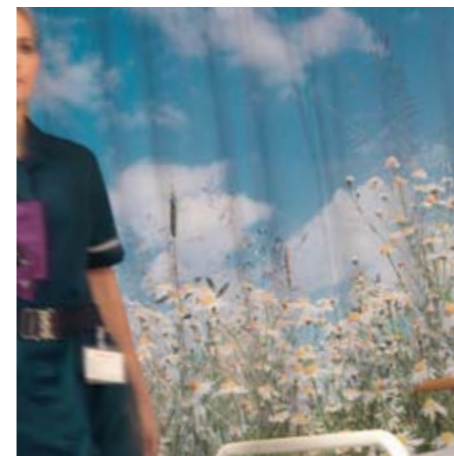

Through art, your organisation can forge links with the community to bring local creativity to life, working with schools or charities to really make the facility part of the neighbourhood.

Print lead times from just three days.

The investment in our own digital facility demonstrates our commitment to the business, to your business.

Digital is faster, more flexible, it allows us to work together to create interiors that reflect our combined expertise and once again impress, surprise and delight the experts who will work and heal in our world.

There's no compromise on quality with Mosaic expert digital fabrics. We can print image resolutions of up to 720 dpi onto materials tested to 50 NHS washes.

expert service

Throughout our 30 years in design and supply of fabric for professional applications, we have learned the value of our expert service.

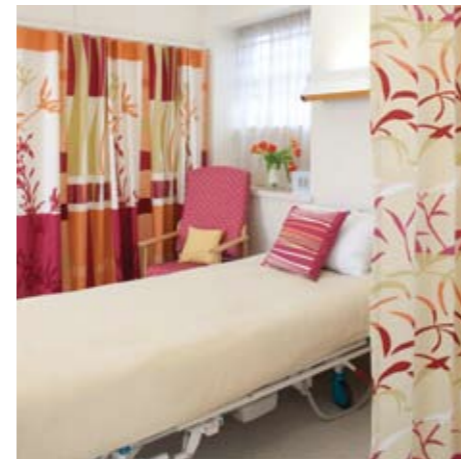

Our designers are accustomed to offering pragmatic advice on fabrics and colour schemes for every application. They know how to design soft furnishing schemes for therapeutic dementia care, to work with anti-ligature products for secure health interiors, and with anti-microbial or soil resistant materials wherever they are required.

This expertise is available across all products and we offer our expert measuring, make-up and installation service for cubicle and window curtains as well as make-up of duvet covers, pillowcases, throws and counterpanes.

The Lancashire Teaching Hospital Trust used Mosaic fabric during the refurbishment of the Royal Preston and Chorley and South Ribble Hospitals. Our designers worked alongside the hospital linen services staff, to create a bespoke design which was installed in both hospitals.

The unique design has helped provide staff and patients with an ideal healing environment and with our BioProtex ingredient, the hospitals latest weapon in the fight against infection.

Lincoln House Community Support Centre, Crewe. A facility with a reputation as a centre of excellence for short stay and day care services.

The Mosaic team were briefed to provide soft furnishings integral to creating an ideal environment for clients and staff of the purpose built dementia wing. Our experts took this project from design through measuring, make-up to installation and fitting on time and to budget.

Sandwell and West Birmingham NHS Trust, in line with their customer care promise of 'making you feel welcome', selected Mosaic curtain fabric for their flagship City Hospital.

The collection's natural cotton fabrics give the hospital's wards a warm and uplifting feel. As well as being aesthetically pleasing they meet all NHS safety and durability requirements including flame retardancy to BS5867 Part 2 Type C and washable to 71°C.
